

HYPNOTIST TO CURE ALL ILLS.

Prof. Quackenbos Tells of 3,000 Cases He Treated.

DISCREDITS MIRACLES.

But Declares Cigarette Slave Drunkard, Kleptomaniac and Others Can Be Saved.

Prof. John D. Quackenbos believes that hypnotism is a panacea for nearly all of the ills that can befall mankind. He regards the use of hypnotic suggestion as a certain and sure cure for diseases which are controlled by mental causes, and asserts that he can cure cigarette smoking, cocaineism, the drink habit, kleptomania, habitual falsehood, suicidal mania, dishonesty and general moral imbecility.

In speaking before the Men's Club Prof. Quackenbos told of about three thousand cases which he had treated and added:

"It is unchristian, anti-christian, criminal to employ hypnotism as an agent for destroying the credulous, for riveting their faith to impossibilities in the line of cure through persuasions of the subconscious self that miracles are not our due."

Scores Christian Science.

Urges role every Christian Science healer stands prepared to play with the most unprincipled chicanery, whereas no conscientious physician deems the impossible to any patient in the hope of temporarily elevating his physical or mental condition, with a view to securing an inevitable termination. To do so would be immoral.

Classes of moral import successfully treated by me may be classified under the following heads: Cigarette addiction and the disturbed mentality of nicotine poisoning; drink habit, moral, phonomania, cocaineism, kleptomania and hopeless dishonesty; mania for gambling, whittling, disobedience, suicidal and homicidal manias and general moral imbecility.

"Disease is singularly amenable to treatment by hypno-suggestion. In fact, some of the popular cures are in reality mere suggestion cures, there being no specific virtue in the drugs administered, certainly not in the hypnotic injection of Croton water and of amorphous.

Desire to Reform is Helpful.

Those desirous of reform and kleptomania, especially if young or apprehensive of the seriousness of their abnormal propensity, may be radically cured by hypno-suggestion.

Recent experiments of mine established the fact that disorganization may be adjusted, a congenital cerebral deficiency overcome, a personality changed by thought induction, mental apathy and depression removed, the mind's personality without a blot upon the brain, and so impeding insanity shielded by the use of hypno-suggestion as a transforming and educational agency.

THINKS SON WAS SLAIN.

Mrs. McGurdy Reports Disappearance of Young Man.

The mother of George McGurdy, who served as a sailor in the Spanish War and who was employed at the East River Gas Works at Bayonne, has reported to the police of Long Island City the disappearance of her son, who left the house last Friday to go to work in one of the cars that met with foul play yesterday.

Today was pay day at the gas works and Mrs. McGurdy thinks that the young man, who was engaged in the business of gas, received and slain for the sake of his money.

The McGurdys live at No. 172 East Avenue. A general alarm has been sent out from headquarters.

Hurt Knee in 5-Story Fall.

Kate Keenan, five years old, of No. 220 West One Hundred and Twenty-fourth Street fell from the fifth to the first floor. When admitted to the surgeon found only a contusion of the left knee.

GEORGE GOULD'S ELDEST SON INJURED IN POLO GAME.

Young Kingdon Thrown by Pony and His Wrist Sprained.

KINGDON GOULD, WHO SOMETIMES EXCHANGES PONY FOR BICYCLE AT POLO.

LAKWOOD, N. J., April 17.—In a practice polo match on the Georgian Court grounds Kingdon Gould, eldest son of George J. Gould, was thrown from the pony in a scrimmage at the lower end of the field.

The fall stunned him and he had to be carried from the field. He was taken in an automobile to the Casino, where he quickly revived. Beyond a sprained wrist he was not hurt by the fall.

Young Gould was playing with his father and brother and peers. Neil Adams, a polo player, and R. F. Collier, another polo player, were also present.

JUST TEN MINUTES FOR DIVORCE CASE

Pretty Mrs. Renoud Told Story to Court.

Then She Drove Away with Her Father and Hopes for a Decree.

A fine-looking business man handed out a pretty woman of perhaps twenty-four from a carriage equipped with leather footman and coachman at the Chambers street entrance of the Court House to-day. He hurried her into the chamber where Justice Fletcher was sitting and the two minutes passed her back into the carriage again.

In that time on the woman, Rosalie Renoud, had presented the evidence upon which he might obtain a decree of divorce.

Not a scrap of unnecessary testimony was needed. The young woman had a brief interview with her lawyer that she was Miss Rosalie Liebenthal when she was married to Frederick C. Renoud eight years ago, and that she had had her a few months after the wedding.

Mr. Liebenthal said he was on his way to the chambers when he saw the woman whom he had seen in years, loomed up in the distance. He saw her enter the room with Justice Fletcher and Renoud, and "Frederick C. Renoud and wife" a few months after the wedding.
